

As part of the study

ReMO COST Action CA19117 :

“Researcher Mental Health”

For all researchers in Switzerland

STAIRCASE Survey on Sustainable Working Conditions in Academia

	OUR GOAL	To create the largest-ever benchmark on researcher workplace well-being and mental health.
	WHY PARTICIPATE	Your input informs recommendations for policy changes.

Who should participate?

	JUNIOR RESEARCHERS	Phd students and post-docs.
	SENIOR RESEARCHERS	Professors and researchers at all levels.

Why should your institution support?

	This survey is conducted by researchers for researchers. By sharing insights on researcher mental health and working conditions, we can derive valuable conclusions to guide evidence-based recommendations for policy changes. By disseminating the survey to researchers in your institutions, you ensure that your institution and country are well-represented, increasing the likelihood of crafting institution-specific, researcher type-specific, and country-specific recommendations tailored to your unique context.
---	---

Benefits to participating institutions:

	This survey is conducted by researchers for researchers. By sharing insights on researcher mental health and working conditions, we can derive valuable conclusions to guide evidence-based recommendations for policy changes. By disseminating the survey to researchers in your institutions, you ensure that your institution and country are well-represented, increasing the likelihood of crafting institution-specific, researcher type-specific, and country-specific recommendations tailored to your unique context.
---	--

For more information, please contact us:

remo.cost@unisante.ch

Professor Irina Guseva Canu (UNIL-Unisanté)

Irina.guseva-canu@unisante.ch

